Council Huffs And Puffs But No Houses Fall

The Warren borough council should have quite a meeting on June 27. About everything that was started at Monday's session ended up by being held over to the adjourned meeting. One major exception was the collection of amendments to the zoning law. These included free parking lots for employees, the addition of the Hill st. area to R1, private parking lot exceptions, odd shaped lot exceptions, and clarifying board of adjustment hearings as public.

Councilman Painter offered an ordinance which would empower the borough manager to investigate property about which complaints are filed. He then could report to the burgess if the property were a danger to the public. The burgess then could give the owner ten days to act, failing which, he would be subject to a fine of $50 and costs. The burgess could cause the work to be done and the owner would be assessed the cost, plus ten per cent, in addition to the fine.

Councilman Merenick asked time to think it over. After it had passed as far as third reading it was held over to June 27 at the suggestion of Councilman Africa.

Councilman Mead moved that council repeal a previous resolution which had referred the name of James Tridico to the civil service commission for examination as a potential chief of the fire department. Councilman Carbon asked why this should be done, and Councilman Mead said Tridico was not qualified. Councilman Carbon said that was for the commission to decide.

Councilman Painter said the commission had asked for a postponement because of a member being absent and that a report would be received in time for the June 27 meeting.

Councilman Mead asked if Tridico still was being paid as captain despite a ruling which said he had been illegally promoted. Solicitor Harper said the chief and captaincy were separate matters.

Councilman Carbon said the discussion was unfair to a man who had served the borough for thirty-two years, and that Mr. Tridico at least was deserving of a chance to be given an examination by the commission. He said the illegal promotion was council's mistake and not the fireman's.

Councilman Mead said there were other men more qualified. Councilman Carbon asked who on council was qualified to say so.

Councilman Yagge said the majority of the firemen consider at least two other men to be more qualified and that they should be given an opportunity to be considered. A vote was taken on the Mead motion and it was defeated 13 to 3, with Mead, Peterson, and Yagge the only supporters. Action on the Tridico case probably will be taken at the adjourned meeting if the civil service commission does its long overdue job.

Councilman Yagge again proposed that council go on record as accepting the twenty-five acres of hillside at the head of Liberty and Market sts. which has been offered to the borough through a letter from L. S. Schofield. The property is from the estate of Kate S. Schofield. The letter said that the borough could use it for any purpose and that the only restriction was the mineral rights which would not be included in the transfer.

Clare J. Cray, a resident of the area involved, made a plea for acceptance, pointing out the value of community forests and the danger of having such land lost to commercial purposes. He said the oil wells were incidental and would not always be there. The land always would.

It was referred to the planning commission.

Solicitor Harper announced that the petition for the division of Warren wards into new proportions was ready for presentation to the court. He also said that he believed the Oak st. property, about which there had been a zoning complaint, and which is occupied by the Warren News Co., is a valid commercial building and that it was so at the time of the zoning law passage.

President Laskaris named Councilmen Frantz, Carbon, Newmaker, and Painter to serve under Dave Levine as a civil defense or emergency committee.

A petition was received from Morrison st. and Pennsylvania ave. district residents, through Brick Lavery, asking for a traffic light at that point due to heavy traffic and numerous accidents. It was referred to the public safety committee, which must ask state approval.

Manager Geracimos reported that about ten per cent of the summer paving is done and the Beech st. sewer project is almost finished. Councilman Mead asked why all of Fourth could not be paved, perhaps with borough equipment. Councilman Emery explained the lack of funds and said that first Warren must find $8400 to resurface the 1952-53 paving project, much of which will be lost if action is delayed.

Councilman Carbon commended Park Superintendent Reier on the preparation of borough playgrounds for the season and introduced Playground Director Fred Bell who outlined the season's program and asked adults to join in the evening activities. He commended council and the school board for their cooperative efforts.

Councilman Carbon introduced an ordinance creating a recreation board and asked council to study it for action June 27. Asked by Councilman Mead why the tennis courts on Beaty had not been completed he explained that emergencies had come up which had depleted the park funds.

Burgess Rice read a letter from Frank Gruninger promising to repair his home on Conewango ave. Burgess Rice warned against passing nuisance ordinances which were aimed at specified property. They should serve all areas, he said.

of art, the Warren Art Group presented life memberships to three members of the Golden Age Society during its meeting on Tuesday. E. G. McCurdy (left), who painted the large oils, and Mrs. Jennie Christensen, responsible for the colleges, (I didn't know either but it means using cancelled postage stamps and water colors) were presented the certificates by Mrs. Gerald Newton (right), president of the honoring group. Mrs. Anna K. Lawson, who is reported to be fancy with the water colors, was not present to receive her certificate. The certificates, a work of art themselves, were lettered by Joe Spence.

During the meeting, a sketch of Dr. Frantz was penned and presented to the energetic octogenarian. School was held with Mrs. Fern Olson as teacher and climaxed with a spelling bee. Approximately 125 were in attendance of whom fifteen were at the birthday table.

ARCHIE HUNTER, right, was honored on Saturday evening by members of the Stoneham alumni association for twenty-five years service to their organization. Mr. Hunter was presented a desk lamp

OBERLIN'S BOY. Anthony Papalia of Warren had a big day Monday when he was graduated from Oberlin. It also was a big day for Oberlin which is very proud of Tony. Not only did he receive an AB degree, but he also was one of seven to receive their air force commissions.

Use Of Beaty Facilities OK'd By Joint Committee

The popularity of the cafeteria and auditorium at Beaty junior high school is becoming more and more apparent with the number of requests which are being received by the Warren joint committee. In its meeting on Monday of this week, the board scheduled the Sport Boosters dinner in the cafeteria for September 30 and the following programs for the auditorium: Jaycee's concert series for October 13, December 13, March 13, and one other undetermined date; the local parade of barber-shoppers for January 14, 1956; the College Club forum on education for November 2; the Philomel club sponsored piano concert for November 19; and the children's plays, a project of the community council PTA, for October 11 and April 9.

Dr. Larson advised that school employees had been examined and their physical conditions were deemed satisfactory.

Approval of the Beaty and high school programs was received from Dr. Ralph Swan, acting superintendent of public instruction.

Approval was granted for George Frits to attend the national F.B.L.A. convention in Chicago where he will be a consultant for a group meeting on Chapter Projects. Mrs. Arlene Whitehill's trip to State College to the F.H.A. convention was approved by the board.

A total of forty-six enrollments was reported for the summer typing course and stimulated the board to provide for two sessions daily and open the classes for more students. Further information can be secured by contacting the superintendent.

School enrollment estimates, prepared by Gerald Newton, indicated a total of 1,663 elementary pupils next term which is an increase of 75 over last year and two hundred more than in 1951; Beaty will house 1,124 compared to 1,055 in 1954-55 and 827 in 1951; the high school will have an estimated 830 the same as last year and ten less than in 1951. The promotion rate was 98.8 percent for the term just completed.

Frank Johnson, speech correctionist, reported seventy-two cases at the beginning of the year and seventy-nine as school closed. Thirty-eight of the 79 are hold-overs from the beginning of the year but a total of 34 have been aided sufficiently to stop treatments.

A new sewing machine was ordered purchased from Singer Sewing Machine Co. Bills in the amount of $15,996.09 were approved which included $9,828.16 to the Pennsylvania School Employees Retirement board. A report was given which disclosed that $6,911.01 was paid from the activities account.

Resignations were accepted from Mrs. Jean Hosie and Allen Adair. Miss Marie Knapp and Warren Carr were employed as instructors at Beaty junior high. The board approved the request of Tom Kristy that he be relieved of the football coaching duties.

The board approved payments of $154 for special services; $1,117.45 for substitutes' salaries; and $247.25 for janitors' overtime.

Also very proud were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Papalia, parents of Tony, who were present to watch him receive his many honors.

Enough of Blacklisting

Not long ago, the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, the terror-stricken union of radio and TV performers, took a courageous and long-overdue stand by condemning the viciously un-American practice of blacklisting actors. The resolution specifically named AWARE, Inc., an organization which has set itself up as the arbiter of who shall or shall not work on the air. AWARE now exercises enormous influence on the industry on the basis of no discernible authority or merit.

The AWARE group, realizing that its prestige has been dealt a solid blow, is trying to get the resolution rescinded through a referendum of AFTRA's entire membership of 5,000. I devoutly hope the membership upholds the resolution condemning AWARE. Secret police don't belong in this country.

One of the things that swayed the original meeting of actors was a speech by an actor named Leslie Barrett, whose experience is fairly typical of AWARE's methods. One day Barrett got a letter from Vincent Hartnett, one of the guiding spirits behind AWARE. Hartnett said that he had a photograph of Barrett marching in a May Day parade in 1952 and asked if this was an accurate index of his present sympathies.

Barrett, who has never been in a May Day parade in his life or been a Communist sympathizer, was stunned. He took the letter to a union official who told him that he'd better not let the matter ride because Hartnett was a powerful man. Barrett then went to the F.B.I. to get some protection for his right to work and was told that the F.B.I. was helpless, though sympathetic.

Hartnett's letter was an oily piece of prose in which he said that if he failed to get a reply he would assume that Barrett was in the May Day parade and still harbored the same political sympathies. The implication was clear — co-operate with Hartnett, a man whom Barrett despises, or be blacklisted and not work. It's this form of coercion that has built the blacklists' power. Individual actors are powerless; the union has been cowardly.

The blacklist racket, which has simmered down quite a lot in the motion picture industry, still flourishes openly in television. While everyone professes innocence, the facts are so widely known to any one in television that they ought to be printed. NBC has shown conspicuous courage in resisting the blacklists. The other networks have knuckled under.

God knows how many blacklists there are but they run into the dozens, all different. The closest thing to a master list is in the hands of one of the largest advertising agencies. When in doubt, people call that agency. How do you get on a blacklist. Well, some actors have got on by having foreign names. Others by having names resembling those of other actors who once appeared at benefits which turned out to be under the auspices of left-wingers. (They didn't appear there. People who resembled them did.)

Actors have been blacklisted for having appeared in Arthur Miller's plays — as if Mr. Miller's politics had anything to do with their working or not. Actors have been blacklisted for having worked at the Phoenix Theater which is supposed to have some left-wingers around. And actors have been blacklisted for nothing at all — and have been unable to find out what the trouble is.

Some sponsors, notably Kraft, Philco and Goodyear, have shown great courage in telling the blacklists to go chase themselves and have hired actors on their merits as actors. Others have cravenly given in and hired only actors "approved" by this little wolf pack of vigilantes. One of the worst of these is the Borden Company, which sponsors "Justice." "Justice" once dropped an actor who had been hired as a stand-in for the star because he had the same

A Head-On Crash which occurred at 11:45 p. m., Sunday, June 12, hospitalized Mary Chronis, Erie, and Henry Tellman, 7 Maple Place, Warren, with painful but no serious injuries. The "direct from Harrisburg" communication system indicates "Yellow" and "Red" alerts and "White" all-clear. There is an additional "Blue" signal which has not been designated as yet. Sgt. Holmes immediately notified cars 1-23 over the radio system to stop traffic until the all-clear which was sounded ten minutes later. All went off without a hitch - in fact most people were unaware of the civil defense practice. You see, Warren borough is without an adequate warning system.

Project "Car Wash" was thoroughly discussed and plans outlined at the meeting of the troop committee of Troop 8, Boy Scouts, which was held in the Scout room of the First Presbyterian church, Warren, on Monday, June 13. Ladies Golf News

Due to the continued inclement weather through Tuesday when many of the weekly matches are played by the women golfers, a notice was posted on the bulletin board stating that this week's match would be nine holes only. Wednesday's brilliant sun led to a misunderstanding on the part of many golfers in view of which it seemed fair to award points both for 9 and 18 holes. The winners of the Poker Tournament were the same for both matches.

In the 9 hole tournament Mrs. Henry Marymont won the event and first low net in Division One with Mrs. W. J. Sedwick second low net. In Division Two Mrs. David Crossett played the best poker and won second low net with Mrs. J. B. Proctor first low net. In the 18 hole match Mrs. T. W. Fisher had a low gross of 96 and first low net with second going to Mrs. Sidney Blackman. Division Two points went to Mrs. Andrew Paucek and Mrs. Francis Ericsson respectively.

THE OBSERVER

HUNDREDS OF GALLONS of water were pumped into the Allegheny river by Warren county volunteer firemen as part of the civil defense drills on Wednesday evening. The many trucks not only made the run to Warren but in every case stand-in equipment from nearby communities protected the properties of the areas from which the participating units originated.

Two-way radios blared instructions to the drivers from the time they left home until they reported to Chief Tridico in Warren. The firemen, if they stand alone, are serious about protecting property. It was interesting to note that the civil defense office was having great difficulty in lining up enough evacuees but it took only a few minutes to gather a crowd of the curious at the scene of the activity -- Pennsylvania ave. between Hickory and Poplar.

TAGGED TO REVEAL THEIR INJURIES, these volunteers waited patiently at the entrance to the First Presbyterian church, Warren, for transportation to outlying communities. At the sound of each fire truck, entering the city with siren screaming, the injured watched the excitement but stood steadfastly at their posts.

From all indications, the drills were successful even with half-hearted participation by citizens.

SIGNED UP. Sgt. Howard Weatherford, of the 9307th Air Force Reserve Sqdn., Jamestown, N. Y., and 1st Lt. Robert Geiger, of Warren, (left to right) are pictured as they reviewed the plans for recruiting ex-servicemen for a specialized training flight to be activated in Warren. As a result of the effort on Friday and Saturday of last week, seventeen men signed on the dotted line.

The first meeting of the unit will be held at the YMCA, Warren, on Tuesday evening June 28 when Capt. Hoag, group liaison officer from Salamanca, N. Y., will give an orientation lecture. For further information, call Lt. Geiger or Lt. John Newmaker.

By Denny Hedges Managers Backbone Of Hot Stove Program

The Warren Hot Stove League held its semi-weekly meeting last Tuesday with 15 men attending. For some organizations, a meeting with 15 persons in attendance is good, but for the Hot Stove League with 57 teams a showing of only 15 men at a semi-weekly meeting is a poor turnout. And the men who showed up at last Tuesday's meeting are the men who can be counted upon to put in an appearance at every meeting.

Where are the rest of the men in the Hot Stove program on these Tuesday nights when the meetings are held? The meetings are scheduled to start at 8:30 so that the managers whose teams play on Tuesday nights can attend the meeting after their games are over.

The success of the Hot Stove program relies a great deal upon the efforts of the individual managers. And by attending the semi-weekly meetings of the Hot Stove League, which are usually ended by 10 p. m., the managers will help the League to function more smoothly and at the same time find solutions to problems that they are facing with their own teams.

The next Hot Stove League meeting will be Tuesday, June 28, in the Trinity Memorial Parish House at 8:30. Let's see all you managers in attendance.

Jaycees' Baseball Excursion

The Warren Jaycees will sponsor a baseball excursion to Cleveland for Warren youngsters on Saturday, July 16, when the Cleveland Indians will meet the Boston Red Sox.

Girls as well as boys are invited by the Jaycees to take part in the excursion which will be free of charge to the youngsters. Everyone making the trip will be covered by insurance which will be paid by the Jaycees. Youngsters wishing to make the trip should fill out the registration blank printed in this paper and turn it into the YMCA before July 9.

Drivers also are needed to help the Jaycees put across this project. Persons interested in driving should call the YMCA.

Postponed Games Big Hot Stove Problem

The problem of postponed games was the major item of business at Tuesday's meeting of the Hot Stove League. It was stated that managers should schedule makeup games as soon as possible in order to avoid the confusion which results when all managers try to schedule their makeup games at the end of the season and there are not enough fields available for all the games.

It was decided that the only causes for postponement of games are inclement weather which makes the field unplayable and mutual agreement by the two managers involved in the game. In cases of inclement weather making the field unplayable, it is up to the home manager, and not the visiting manager, to postpone the game. Managers should make arrangements for playing the game at a later date when they postpone.

President John Carbon suggested that Hot Stove players and managers attend the baseball school being sponsored by the Warren Moose.

The next meeting of the Hot Stove League will be Tuesday, June 28, in the Trinity Memorial Parish House at 8:30. (Lest you forget)

Cersolsun Maintains Softball Lead

Ken Sorenson picked up his eighth victory of the season when he hurled the undefeated Cersolsun team to a 25 to 9 win over the Merchants in the Industrial Softball League.

Rain during the week forced postponement of most league activity. In the only other games played, Stan Phelps was on the mound as Nick's Restaurant downed New Process, 9 to 5, and Guiffre's beat Thomas Coupling, 12 to 8. Anderson was the winning pitcher for Guiffre's and Hook was the losing Thomas Coupling pitcher.

Hot Stove Activity

Rain cut heavily into the Hot Stove League schedule during the past week and few games were played. In Bantam League activity, U.C.T. shutout Youngsville National Bank 4 to 0. Homeruns by Mike Rice, Bob Laniowicz, and Sam Armstrong accounted for three of the winner's runs. Bob Laniowicz pitched for U.C.T. and struck out 18 batters. Sam Armstrong was his catcher. Sample and Halfast was the Youngsville battery. Thomas Coupling downed Emblem Oil, 11 to 1, in the only other Bantam game reported. Chapel was the winning hurler for Thomas Coupling and Anderson was his catcher. Falvo and Buerkle and White was the Oilers' battery. Engel blasted out a home run for the winners.

Mack's News turned in two wins during the week to nail down top position in the Eastern Division of the Midget League. Mack's edged Certified Electric, 4 to 3, behind the pitching of Albaugh and the catching of Sedwick. Tome and Richerson was the Certified battery. Mack's used 11 hits to beat Walker's IXL, 8 to 6. Albaugh was again the winning hurler for Mack's. Westcott and Quackenbush was the Walker's battery.

Interelectric also won twice in the Eastern Division of the Midget League during the week. They trounced Newell Press, 25 to 3, and took Barnhart Davis, 16 to 11.

Two games were reported in the Western Division of the Midget League. Craft Agency remained unbeaten by taking Youngsville No. 2, 6 to 4. Barry Johnson was the winning moundsman for Craft. Youngsville No. 2 edged Youngsville No. 1, 6 to 5, in an exciting contest. Hendrickson was the winning pitcher and Vicander was his catcher. Crippen and Phanco was the battery for the losers. Dave Phanco, Youngsville No. 1, and Anderson, Youngsville No. 2, hit home runs.

Hammond Iron shut out Nelson & Ellberg, 4 to 0, in Eastern Division Cadet League play. McCool and Tickner was the winning battery. Carlson hurled and Miller caught for Nelson & Ellberg. American Legion downed Baker's Atlantic, 16 to 10, in the only other game reported in this league.

Betts Machine Shop continued unbeaten in the Western Division of the Cadet League by winning two games during the week. It beat Warren Kiwanis, 13 to 3, and blasted Elmhurst Market, 20 to 5. Kane was the winning pitcher over Warren Kiwanis and Pring was the winning hurler in the Elmhurst game. Suppa was the Betts catcher in both contests. Warren Kiwanis clipped Cornplanter Motors, 15 to 6, in the only other reported game in the league. Grady poked two home runs for the winners. Lawton and Terry was the Kiwanis battery, and Sidon and White, the Cornplanter Motors battery.

No games were reported in either the Intermediate or Junior Leagues during the week.

Let Leaders See Atomic Destruction

By Doris Fleeson

WASHINGTON — The generally negative attitude taken by Secretary of State Dulles toward the "meeting at the summit" of the Big Four July 18 at Geneva is causing concern here. Congress, other officials and assorted experts are voicing the apprehension that the United States is again losing the propaganda battle to the Russians and that at Geneva it will be worse.

The most striking idea for reversing this trend comes from Thomas E. Murray, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission. Mr. Murray has repeatedly voiced his moral anxiety for the age of nuclear fission.

He wants world leaders including the Big Four statesmen — American, Russian, British and French — to witness an explosion of the hydrogen bomb. So far as he knows, none of them ever has.

Such demonstrations of the full effects of large-scale thermonuclear explosions can be arranged without disclosing weapons technology, Mr. Murray told a recent audience. He put the question:

"How can the world take any chance that each one in authority is not thoroughly familiar with what all-out atomic war would really mean? What a tragedy it would be if after a nuclear holocaust it was disclosed that those who struck the atomic spark had no real understanding of the extent to which nuclear fire would spread!"

A well-informed leadership on a world-wide basis seems to this atomic commissioner "absolutely essential to survival."

It is perhaps unfortunate for him that Sir Winston Churchill is no longer Prime Minister of Great Britain, for like so many good ideas, Churchill had it first. It was during one of his visits here to President Truman.

The Prime Minister had been taken to the secret briefing room at the Pentagon by the then Secretary of Defense Lovett and shown the actual destruction achieved by nuclear weapons. He marvelled suitably, then abruptly asked Lovett:

"Have you shown this to the Russian Ambassador?" Somewhat taken aback, Lovett said no, they hadn't. "You ought to do it, he is the man who ought to see it," rumbled Churchill. Lovett tactfully admitted it was quite a suggestion, but apparently never took it seriously.

Mr. Murray may meet with the same fate. Nevertheless there is a very real feeling here that ideas are badly needed for the Geneva meeting and that the Administration could use them.

Attention is being paid to a suggestion by Perry Laukhoff, a U. S. diplomat who has met the Russians in numerous conferences, that we need negotiators specially trained in Communist methods. Laukhoff points out that the Russian negotiators are career professionals, while the United States removes its people just about the time they learn how to handle the Russians.

He names many: George Kennan, Lucius Clay, Dean Acheson, Averell Harriman, John McCloy, Philip Jessup. There is also Mrs. Roosevelt who, besides long experience with the Russians, has unique stature West and East.

Rep. Elliott of Alabama suggests that as a way of spurring the West's fight for world opinion, President Eisenhower should make known a desire to visit Russia at the conclusion of the Big Four talks. The Russian invitation to Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany of course prompted Rep.

Elliott. Prime Minister Nehru of India is already in Moscow and the tremendous warmth of his reception by the Russian people was the news lead on the story.

BUYERS' CORNER

Why Buy Trouble?

We were pleased to see a rash of publicity come out in the past two weeks concerning the probable connection between cigarets and lung cancer. Obviously the public was beginning to get over its original scare, as indicated by the up-swing of cigaret sales.

We heard one radio announcer say that just because lung cancer was most prevalent among cigaret smokers was no proof that they were the cause. The source, or the potential source, of a portion of his income is made quite obvious.

This is like saying that a draft or damp feet do not cause a cold, therefore sit in all the drafts you want or get as wet as you want, even if you do catch cold.

Perhaps cigarets are not the basic cause of lung cancer, but there is little doubt that as they are made today cancer causes are encouraged by the presence of some element that is contained in cigaret smoke. There may be other irritants which contribute, such as exhaust fumes and city fumes of various kinds, but cigarets definitely are pin-pointed as being one of them.

It also is being pointed up now that cigarets and alcohol combine as a team of prevalence among those having cancer of the larynx. This type of cancer does not receive the attention of some others because it is more easily discovered and can be cured or removed.

One group which has been making a study of the cigaret relation to lung trouble suggests that people who are nervous and make a point of smoking to quiet those nerves figure high in the lung cancer group. It is suggested that cigarets do not help such people.

In fact, cigarets increase the heart beat, jumps the blood pressure, and reduces the flow of blood to the heart muscle. A not very happy combination, and one which suggests that the weed also isn't helping those with heart trouble, high blood pressure, or ulcers.

Time magazine last week had a good review of late findings, Page 67, June 13 issue. Well worth your reading.

Certainly, if you are trying to buy good health, cigarets are not a good buy. Whether or not they are the basic cause of several diseases, they apparently are greasing the skids.

Wrap Around Windshields

We question the value of the new windshields which are built with a large curve on the sides. We still have the posts, and posts just as large as ever. A car still can ride up to the intersection with you from a left or right direction and stay completely hidden by the posts.

Much of the bulge is out in front of the posts and we are wondering if the net result is not going to be a bad effect on the nation's eyesight. They say that it is bad for your eyes to wear a pair of glasses which blur or do not fit your case. We suspect that the distortion present in the curve of the windshields will have the same effect. We wonder if those driving long trips find their left eye suffering from the effects of this distortion.

Remove Scars

People who suffer both emotional and physical distress as the result of face scars, either as the result of disease or accidents, may soon have relief. A new machine which can be used in a doctor's office will smooth the skin and in six to ten weeks the treated area regains its normal color.

The face is washed, and men are shaved. The area to be treated, about three square inches at a time, is chilled with ice and an ethyl alcohol spray is applied. An air blower is directed onto the area and the ethyl alcohol spray does its work. Then a rotating wire brush, about the size of a five-cent piece, which turns at 12,000 rpm, is placed against the face with moderate pressure.

There is supposed to be very little discomfort. The skin crusts, but clears in a week or ten days. A pink then covers the area which goes away in six to ten weeks. Those suffering from acne pits and scars should find some help here that will mean much in their attaining the moving desire of most people, the wish to have others approve us.

(Game Commission Release) New Type Flushing Bar Saves Pheasants

Homer Thrush, a Cumberland County game protector, made an early June statement that evoked thought. Said Thrush, "A farmer in my district recently told me that during the mowing season of 1954 a total of 46 adult and young ringneck pheasants were killed by mowing operations on his farm." Unfortunately, pheasants like to nest in hay fields. Because mowing takes place in these natural hatcheries at the time pheasant nesting is at its peak many pheasant hens and their prospective broods are lost.

This recalls that years ago, when pheasants were becoming established over much of their present range in Pennsylvania, many farmers attached a flushing bar to their horse-drawn mowing machine. The bar, dragging chains or weighted cables, extended to the side being cut and scared off incubating hens before the blade passed over the nest. Not only did the device save many of the hens, but nests thus discovered were also protected when humane farmers left "islands" of cover around them.

When the tractor came into wide use the flushing bar, as attached to the horse-drawn machine, was found to be ineffective because of the tractor's greater speed. A broody hen had too little time to fly away ahead of the cutter bar. Recent experiments show that a modified flushing bar is still effective when attached to the front of the tractor which is well ahead of the mowing bar. The device has even been hinged to allow the farmer to pass through gates without detaching it.

In several states, studies aimed at learning the extent of pheasant mortality showed tractor mowers without flushing bars destroyed 35 percent to 60 percent of the hens nesting in hay fields. When flushing bars with chains, or cables and weights, were used only about 15 percent of the hens were destroyed or crippled.

Here again the teamwork of sportsmen and farmers can combine to save many birds. The agriculturist cannot be criticized for the loss of wildlife; he would far rather prevent it if he could, without great expense and loss of labor time. But because wildlife is a by-product of farming it is only of incidental importance to him economically. However, pheasants are necessary to good bird hunting in many areas. That is why sportsmen's organizations in some states are again providing flushing bars for farmers in their locality. This is a program that assures better bird shooting and also provides an opportunity for sportsmen to show their interest in game management and in establishing a better farmer-sportsman relationship.

Education Laboratory At Penn State U.

It has often been said the best time to impress Americans with the need for sound resource management is during the formative years. But until fairly recently the problem of putting across the overall conservation story was first one of instructing school teachers on the subject. The Conservation Education Laboratory, open to both men and women teachers, was therefore established in the mid-forties as a summer course at The Pennsylvania State University.

The eventual effect of knowledge gained there and imparted to school children is appreciated by conservation agencies generally. The Game Commission realizes the value of the course, not only because of wildlife education gained but because the management of soil, water and timber largely determines game and fur populations.

The tenth annual Laboratory will be conducted at the University this summer. Professor T. R. Porter of the staff there has announced these dates for the two classes: July 5 to 23 and July 25 to August 13. Three units of credit are given persons completing the study course.

Through this instruction the teacher-student will: 1. Obtain information from first-hand observation of natural resources. 2. Understand the interrelationships between natural resources and between man and resources. 3. Develop a philosophy toward resource use that will carry over into everyday living. 4. Become familiar with the efforts made by various agencies toward conserving natural resources. 5. Study efficient and practical methods of correlating conservation concepts into classroom teaching at various levels of pupil ability. 6. Become familiar with instruction aids useful in conservation teaching. 7. Explore ways and means of influencing community action in conservation education programs.

Total cost of the 1955 course is $89.70. This includes the general fee, that for health service and the cost of housing and meals. The Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs has provided 10 teacher scholarships of $50 each for this summer's course. Women's clubs, individual sportsmen's clubs and other organizations also interested in natural resource education have defrayed the expenses of many teachers taking the course in past years. Such offers are again being made this year. Despite the generosity of these organizations and the worthiness of the cause some scholarships have gone begging in the past. It is hoped all the Laboratory scholarships offered this year will be accepted, to the benefit of teachers, youngsters and future resource management in Pennsylvania.

Seven Enter Art Show

Seven residents of the Warren area have entered their work in the first tri-state jury show of the Chautauqua Art Association. The show will hang in the McKnight Recital hall, from July 2 to 17, but the entry deadline is June 16. Entry blanks and the fee may be brought to the Furniture Manufacturers building, in Jamestown, if they haven't been mailed. Both oil and water colors are eligible.

Home On The Road

Have you had a close look at those modern trailers? Some of them look as long as a box car. They aren't, of course, but they are long enough to provide a handy little bungalow for a couple with an urge to do some gypsying.

For those who have a small retirement fund a home of this kind could set them up in the south during the winter and on a pleasant northern lake in the summer. Nice life!

There are some inconveniences, but they have been minimized in the late editions. There also are inconveniences if you try to maintain two homes, north and south, and at a far greater expense than a trailer. And there are inconveniences with a trip by car and the finding of a place to stay, storage of furniture, moving possessions, and numerous other details.

You can't beat a modern home, but the new trailers do fit the needs of many people, some of whom may have a mental picture of their inadequacies which is dated. Perhaps it would pay them to have a look at today's cottage on wheels.

In our field of work we can see great possibilities. A couple working as a team on a book could fully catch the local atmosphere by moving their tidy little home into the area and living there a few months. It sounds like a good set-up for the free-lancers, such as most of us dream of being, but few of us in the writing business find either the money or the time to make possible.

But if you have a little gypsy urge or hunger for comfortable adventure, one of these fancy wagons might provide a real experience. And, like a home, you always can sell it when the fun wears out and other fields beckon.

Many Danes

The dog show which will be held on Wilder field by the Conewango Valley Kennel Club, a week from Sunday, will be well attended if the weather changes its ways and smiles a bit of radiance. The entry is expected to number about three hundred, which assures a success for this first official dog show to be held in Warren county.

Leading the breeds may be the Great Danes. It is expected that about forty of the big fellows will be exhibited in this outdoor event. That alone would be worth a visit on your part. Some real champions are sure to be among these giants. But you can also count on a big share of spaniels, working dogs, and most of the currently popular breeds.

If you like dogs, this is your day. If you want to like them, this may prove they can be well behaved. If you are trying to decide what kind you want, the actions of those seen in the show may help you reach a conclusion. Direct comparisons will be possible, and the traits of breeds very often show up under these circumstances. Don't look at the worst or the best. Look at the average. The characteristics, or many of them, will be evident.

Barbershoppers Make It

For the first time in the history of Chautauqua the barbershop quartet type of music will be held there when several hundred such singers will present a program the opening week, July 8. Included will be the Chord Cadets of Warren, plus the Buffalo Bills, Note Crackers, and other top units from the Seneca Land District of SPEBSQSA. It is expected that the 7,500 amphitheater seats will be filled.

The Voice

The voice heard in the movie "Interrupted Melody" is not that of Eleanor Parker who plays the part of Marjorie Lawrence, about whom the story is built. It is that of Eileen Farrell, lyric dramatic soprano, who may be heard at Chautauqua the night after that Barbershop affair. Critics have said that it is the voice of Miss Farrell which gives the film its true distinction.

The Public Fights High Rates

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON. -- There are signs here in Congress that reflect that the folks back home finally are waking up to the threat to our natural resources.

For the first time since January 20, 1953, it begins to look as if the voice of the rank and file may be as effective here, or almost, as that of powerful special interests. As we know, the latter group set out at the start of this Administration to break down protections thrown about our natural resources that were designed to utilize them for the best public interest.

How the impact of the public is being felt can be illustrated in the case of two issues.

One is the proposed exemption of producers of natural gas from regulation by the Federal Power Commission, which consumers are bitterly fighting; the other is the Dixon-Yates contract, which is recognized as a major effort to destroy the public water resource program by driving a private utility wedge into TVA, the program's most dramatic symbol.

When this Democratic Congress met in January, it was accepted as almost a foregone conclusion that big oil would get a law to remove natural gas producers from FPC regulation, just as big oil got its law in the previous Republican Congress to hand over jurisdiction of offshore oil lands to the states. In natural gas, as in offshore oil, such a law would nullify Supreme Court decisions.

Everything seemed set for an easy and early victory for natural gas and the big oil companies that own the bulk of natural gas reserves. Oil states had members well-placed in key spots of power. The House Interstate Commerce Committee gave priority to the exemption bill, hearings beginning weeks ago. They were supposed to last only a few days and then, presto, the measure would be hurried through the House.

But that didn't happen. It hasn't happened yet, here in mid-June. The reason: a public rebellion by consumers. Their representatives followed one another before the committee with protests, including mayors of our great cities.

Finally, just last week, the committee approved the bill, but by a hairline margin, 16 to 15. That forecasts a very close battle in the House, especially since that body will be acting under a spotlight turned on by consumers. Everybody will know where to look.

Six years ago the first of such natural gas bills was whisked through the House one afternoon in 40 minutes, between naps so to speak. It never got to a vote in the Senate. Finally an exemption bill did get through Congress -- but former President Truman killed it with his veto.

But there's no champion waiting in the White House now ready with a veto. President Eisenhower will sign a natural gas bill as he signed the offshore oil bill. The public at last seems to be waking up to the fact that on issues like this it has to protect itself now. That explains the concentration on Congress, where the bill must be stopped if it is to be stopped. There are plenty of champions there -- and they did a fine job in the House as they are now doing in the Senate, where public hearings are going on.

What has happened on natural gas is heartening for the Democratic process and so, too, is what is happening on the Dixon-Yates contract. In this second case, as you know, the House Appropriations Committee last week eliminated from the appropriation bill the $6.5 millions asked by the Budget Bureau to build a transmission line from the middle of the Mississippi River into Memphis, Tennessee, to bring power from the projected Dixon-Yates plant in Arkansas. If the committee is upheld by the House and Senate, that would be the end of the Dixon-Yates plant, in spite of the widely publicized ground-breaking ceremonies the other day at the site in Arkansas. For that gold shovel they used is no conductor of electricity. The transmission line must do that.

The attempt to break into the TVA with a private utility combine of Wall Street antecedents on the flimsy pretext of helping out the Atomic Energy Commission was recognized at the very outset by the folks in the TVA area for what it was, a sham perpetrated by the Budget Bureau with the approval of the President. The suspicions of the people in the area have been compounded by the private war being carried on simultaneously against TVA by Herbert Hoover and the Hoover Commission because of the former President's advisory role in the Administration.

So far the public alertness in the field of conservation of natural resources has been most helpful. But the pressure must be kept up, right to the end, without stop. Congress has some time to run yet. It is in the closing, hectic days that the slick tricks are pulled when it is not so easy for the public to follow the tracks of its servants here.

Your Forest Ranger

Laurence E. Stotz

In this Golden Anniversary year, of the U. S. Forest Service, we seek to acquaint the public with the five important products of the national forests: water - wood - forage - wildlife, and recreation. Of these five basic resources, water is by far the most important, and is the keystone upon which all the others rest.

Deprived of all water, a man could last only about ten days. By confining his use of water strictly to drinking purposes man could survive on half a gallon a day. The European city dweller gets along nicely on a per capita use of 39 gallons per day for all domestic needs, but his wasteful American cousin requires 155 gallons per day. And yet here in the East this 155 gallon per capita daily consumption for domestic purposes amounts to only about one-sixth of the per capita use of water for all purposes. The big user of water, in the East, is industry which requires 81 percent of the water compared to 3 percent for irrigation. In the West the situation is almost reversed with irrigation using nearly the same proportion of water that industry uses in the East.

The highly industrialized state of Pennsylvania makes more demands upon water than any other state in the Union, using 1397 billion gallons. The peak is not yet in sight, because as the standard of living increases so does the demands for usable water. Industrial water problems become more acute with technological advances. It takes more water to manufacture rayon and nylon than it does to manufacture cotton and wool cloth which these synthetic fibers replace. Likewise, in the manufacture of synthetic rubber the water requirements greatly exceed that needed for processing natural rubber.

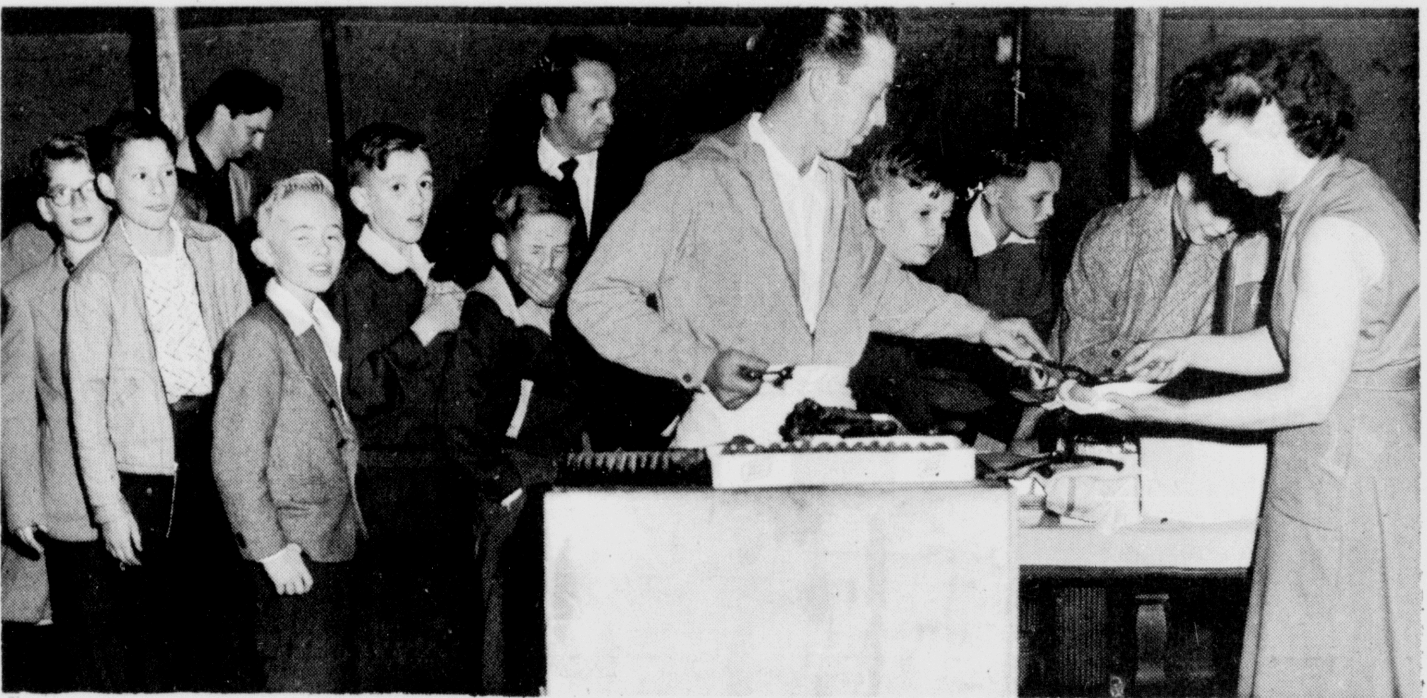

The demand for usable water can be expected to increase in the years ahead. Since 1900 total withdrawal of water in the United States has doubled on the average of every 25 years. Much of this has been due to the doubling of our population in the past half century, but the constantly rising standard of living, and increased consumption of raw materials which require fabulous amounts of water to process into usable products, has aggravated the situation. Even if a leveling off of the

SING FOR YOUR SUPPER was the instruction given members of the Warren Boy Choir by Director Byron Swanson as they visited Williams' Charcoal stand after the dress rehearsal on Monday evening. Tom Williams and his son, Francis (Bud), went all out to entertain the boys royally and the choir "paid off" for the hot dogs and soft drink by rendering several numbers "officially" and this off the record number while partaking of the refreshments.

HELP YOURSELF AND FIX YOUR OWN - use all the mustard and catsup you desire. "Bud" kept the dogs sizzling over the charcoal and Mr. Swanson kept the boys in line for the unusual treat. The tent was provided because of the threat

population growth takes place, in the next 25 years, the great increase in the standard of living, which is spark plugging plant expansion in industry, may require that the water supply be again doubled.

With increased water demands a practical certainty, in the years ahead, it is imperative that thought be given to practical methods of increasing the supply. We could reclaim some of the water used, but this has technical limitations, and is subject to public prejudice. We could store, in existing reservoir space, about 13 percent of the average annual run-off, and by constructing additional dams a considerable increase in storage capacity could be achieved. Actual storage capacity, however, is steadily reduced by sedimentation, which is now occurring at an alarming rate in the country's reservoirs, and by evaporation losses.

Another possibility of increasing the water supply is through man induced rainfall, but this is still on an experimental basis, and on an overall basis would probably only change the place that it rains - and not the total amount of rainfalling.

Industries on the east and west coast may use salt water for industrial cooling processes as a substitute for fresh water. Although salt can be removed from sea water the process costs thirty times the cost of treating natural water. Perhaps some day a cheap method of salt removal from sea water will be developed which will solve the industrial and municipal water problems of coastal cities.

One of the biggest losses of usable water, after it falls as rain, is through transpiration of water from the soil back into the air through the leaves of plants and trees. Evaporation of rainfall, intercepted by the forest leaves before it ever reaches the ground, accounts for some water losses. Evaporation - transpiration returns 70 percent of annual rainfall to the atmosphere. Manipulation of the forest cover can make startling increases in the amount of run-off of usable water from a given watershed without appreciable soil losses.

FAMILY BIDS BON VOYAGE.

The seven children of Otto Gnage were all home to bid "God's speed" to their father who plans to leave from New York by plane on Thursday, June 16 (this afternoon), for his former homeland, Switzerland. Mr. Gnage, amazed over the speed of modern travel, advised that he will arrive in Europe on Friday and should see his 86 year old mother in Lauffel on Saturday. The trip is really postponed nine years as Mr. Gnage originally planned the jaunt for 1946 but uncertain world conditions caused various delays. His father died just two years ago and a previous visit could have been a more joyous occasion.

The farewell was held in the Pleasant Township fire hall on Sunday afternoon in the form of an open house arranged by Mrs. Gnage and the children. Friends and relatives enjoyed the time of fellowship and the opportunity of wishing-well the excited traveler.

Bike Road-E-O, Concert Plans, Softball, Miss Pennsylvania Coming

The Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce took on a husky schedule of subjects last evening. It was decided to sell an additional 15 concert series tickets for next season, when the attractions will be held in the new Beatty auditorium. The dates may be found in the Community Calendar.

The Miss Warren committee announced that it has obtained Miss Pennsylvania for the visiting beauty this year. She is Miss Barbara Sue Nager.

The Jaycees will hold a bicycle road-e-o in conjunction with the summer playground program. A date in August will be named.

A softball team is being formed and an inter-city league will be organized, including teams from Corry, Jamestown, Bradford, and Titusville. Frank Fiesi and Frank Cruickshank ask all candidates to turn out for a practice session Sunday, at two o'clock, on Beatty field.

It was learned that Donald Hackman, winner of the Warren road-e-o, placed 24th in the state event at Pittsburgh. A very good showing on a difficult course.

TOO BAD. It always hurts to see large trees brought down, especially within the borders of a community where they constantly must fight against the saws of progress. One of the reasons Warren is cool and fresh in warm weather is the plentiful supply of large trees along its streets. However, to make room for widening and paving, this pair of rows bordering Frank st. are coming down.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

Why Not Save Lives?

We cannot follow the Washington reasoning which blithely spends money in the billions for the purpose of taking lives, but is so economy minded when a few million can be used to save them. The most recent example is the polio business.

A Democrat proposal to appropriate sufficient funds for the vaccination of all the nation's young people is opposed by such administration leaders as Mrs. Hobby, who seems determined that the states or the people should do their own financing when it comes to health.

The trouble is that it is difficult to find the borderline between the needy and the financially able. This is well revealed in our own state where we make a practice of leaning over backward when it comes to interpreting the relief laws. We even go so far as to make an effort to deduct the free meal a pupil may get in school from the amount his parents can receive from the state in the way of financial help. It has happened here!

We have fought a major battle against polio and the finishing stroke can be made if we stop quibbling over a buck where lives are concerned. The quickest and most humane way is the one in which we are interested, and that seems to be a simple policy of telling the kids to march in and be inoculated.

If we are so willing to protect them from the ravages of a potential enemy from the skies, with radar, planes, and bombs, why do we hesitate to give them the full benefit of our new knowledge concerning the means of eliminating polio.

You could classify this as national defense, if you find that necessary. Certainly a healthy nation will be better able to defend democracy.

Here is an opportunity to wipe out a potent enemy of man. It is not enough to protect those who can or will pay the costs. The objective should be to completely eliminate the disease, if possible.

Pride will get in the way in many cases, with parents refusing to ask for charity. Others will be forced to face the fact that they do not have the dollars, even though they are working and do have some money. They are not charity cases in the eyes of many state relief workers.

We continue to contend that people should be permitted to choose their own doctors, and he possibly should be allowed to name his own price, but the major battles against our killers should be helped by general financing. All of us should be forced to pay our share, even as we are in the case of war.

This best can be done by the appropriation of a few billion, and we did say billion, to finance the cost of laboratory work by those who are looking for the answer to our major killers. Our present hit and miss method of collecting funds for this work would be ridiculed if it were used to prepare a war machine. Why is it considered sufficient in the drawn-out effort to save lives from disease.

Why don't you write to your congressman? Ask him what he is doing about this. Also ask your senators. It is time they got off their hands and approved some fat checks for projects equally as important as fat war machine contracts.

Warren School Board Sets July Meeting Date

In order to avoid the conflict with Independence Day on July 4, the Warren school directors have postponed their July meeting one week to July 11. The decision was reached at the regular monthly meeting which was held on Monday evening of this week.

Receipts were acknowledged of state funds which included $995.05 for the April lunch program, $397.32 for special April milk provision, $5,032.90 subsidy on nurses, and $15,709.17 for the kindergarten.

Approval was granted the playground program as presented by Fred Bell. Dr. Larson reported the health of the employees to be satisfactory. The officers of the board — Melvin Keller, president, R. E. Brasington, vice president, F. E. Kieshauer, secretary, and W. H. Cowden, treasurer — were authorized to serve as the teachers' committee for the summer months.

Head taxes, which had been considered uncollectable, in the amount of $6,445.69 were marked off the list — mostly names of individuals who had died or moved. The 1955 tax duplicate was delivered to the collector with the usual 1 percent commission approved for this year. Estimated taxes are: Property, $305,310.57; head and resident, $96,980.

Payments were authorized as follows: Special services, $82.88; salaries of substitutes, $495.00; janitors' overtime, $39.25; monthly orders, $2,301.95; cafeteria services, $1,579.37 for May and $518.72 for June; cafeteria supplies, $4,603.69 for May and $1,388.12 for June. The overtime rate for janitors was set at $1.50 per hour.

The residence of Jack King at Zem Zem Temple in Erie was acknowledged. Report of dental hygienist revealed that 332 children had received fluoride treatments and the 39 percent of the children reported as needing dental care had been treated by dentists. A report indicated that $405,548.79 has been received from the state for various purposes during the past term.

Upon recommendation of the buildings and grounds committee, the board accepted the report of the architects, Lawrie and Green, that a new roof be placed on South Street building and authorized advertising for bids. King-Keystone received the contract for coping at Lacy building and McMillen Builders Supply for the insulation approved at Lacy and McClintock buildings.

Upon recommendation of the finance committee, $40,497.76 in bills were authorized for payment. The major items included $7,191.17 to the Pennsylvania School Employees Retirement Board and approximately $28,000 to the joint committee for the operation of the high school and Beaty junior high school.

Resignations were accepted from Miss Joan Heeney, and Mrs. Donna Oviatt, kindergarten teachers at Jefferson and East St., respectively. Miss Ann Ruhling and Mrs. Delores Benson were employed as teachers at Jefferson.
